Dr. Daniel Sanderson, Clinical Director at RedCliff Ascent, recently spoke at the 12th annual conference on Critical Issues Facing Children and Adolescents.

Dr. Sanderson was part of a panel of experts who led a workshop entitled “Continuum of Care – Where to Refer, What to Expect.”

The conference brought together professionals from a variety of backgrounds who deal with families facing a wide range of behavioral, mental health and substance abuse issues.

Dr. Sanderson explained the fundamentals of outdoor behavioral therapy, as well as RedCliff’s Developmental Vacation treatment philosophy.

The conference was sponsored by ESI Management Group, in partnership with the Children’s Behavioral Health Institute, Primary Children’s Medical Center, the University of Utah Neuropsychiatric Institute, the Edward G. Callister Foundation and the Utah Department of Health.
